Joseph L. Whitman is wondering who needed glass so badly that three lights should be removed from a window in his camp, located near his farm buildings at Horse Hill. The putty had been removed with a dull knife and the sash splintered. No entrance had been made, except the glass was the only article needed. Joseph doesn't mind the small loss, but if more lights are needed, a chisel can be found in his shed, which would at least save the sash from further destruction.

Sam Isaacson received word Saturday morning from a brother-in-law in New York City that Mrs. Isaacson and two children, Philip and Miriam, had escaped the Gossack massacre at Rudokovitz, in the state of Vilno, Russia, and were with relatives. Last January Mr. Isaacson learned through a Jewish newspaper that the town had been wiped out and the inhabitants herded together and killed with machine gun fire, not a soul having escaped. Nothing has been heard since and the family were given up for lost. So delighted was Sam over the good news from New York, that he started for that city Saturday afternoon to learn the particulars. The family will be brought to Norway if it is possible to get them to America.

Mr. C. C. Frost received word recently that his brother, Sergt. Albert C. Brackett was severely wounded July 23, while in action. He has had five years of active service in the U. S. BURNING BUILDINGS CAUSED TRAGEDY

The large farm buildings owned and occupied by Charles A. Richardson of Elm Street, Norway village, were burned early Saturday morning. The family escaped in their night clothing and Carroll Barker, a young man who lived in the family, was suffocated while asleep. Eight cows, two horses and a few hens were removed from the burning buildings. A bull, two hogs, a horse and calves perished. Thirty-two tons of hay and considerable grain was destroyed.

Most of the household furniture was saved in the main part of the house, and the rooms cleared on the second floor. Loss is estimated at about $12,000, partially covered by $3000 insurance on the buildings and $700 on the contents. No plans have been made as yet to rebuild as Mr. Richardson and family are completely broken up over the tragedy which followed the loss of their home.

The fire was discovered about the same time by two people. Raymond Damon, a farm hand, who occupied a room in the el, was awakened by the smoke and fire shortly after eleven, Friday night. Rushing toward the stairs which led to the third floor occupied by Carroll Barker, he shouted several times but was forced to leave because of the dense smoke which commenced to rush through toward that floor. He hurried down stairs and called Mr. Richardson and his wife. Both men started for the barn to release the stock while Mr. Richardson quickly gathered her two daughters and son, then telephoned for help.

While this first scene was being hurriedly enacted, William Richardson saw the blaze across the log from Main street and pulled in an alarm at Box 35, then hurried to the spot. Neighbors soon gathered, and the work of clearing the house and barn went on rapidly before the department arrived.

The blaze started in the el close to the barn and spread rapidly in all directions. Within five minutes after the discovery the large barn and front part of the long set of buildings were a roaring furnace. Fortunately the air was calm and the department had little trouble to confine the blaze to the buildings. Charles H. DeCoster's residence nearby was covered with one stream, and two more played on the main house which was the last part to ignite.

The sad story is in the suffocation of Carroll Barker who occupied the third room in the main part on the third floor. Considerable confusion as to his whereabouts caused a delay in making an early search. Whether or not he was occupying the room at the time was a question unsettled until a careful search was instituted after the fire had been subdued. He was seen to leave the house soon after supper, intending to spend the evening until late at a social gathering. Many claimed he had returned and retired about eight o'clock. Others were sure they saw him running from the house scantily clad, soon after the family had been called, and must be at a neighbor's after clothing. Many were positive he was in the large crowd watching the excitement.

Smoke was pouring in thick volumes from his window long before the flames reached that part, and it indicated a strong draft was drawing through from the burning el. Percy H. Nevers, Jr., and others who were the first to reach the scene, tried to force a passage up the stairs which was the only entrance to the attic except through windows. They were certain he was in bed, as they felt sure Carroll had changed his mind and not gone as first planned. So fierce were the flames they could not reach the second floor. A ladder was raised to the front window near his bed, but the dense smoke drove the rescuers back.

After the roof had fallen in and a thin shell remained, Murray Russell and others started a search. The missing young man could not be found in the several and telephone calls failed to locate him in town or at the place where he arranged to go. Ladders were again raised to the third floor which was indicated only by a few charred rafters. The party including Harry V. Cole, Sumner Parker, Mason Kilgore and Homer Truett made the ascent and located the body about 2 o'clock where the bed had been. Medical Inspector Herman L. Bartlett ordered the remains lowered to the ground and removed to Spiller's Undertaking room.

The Richardson buildings are a total loss. Nothing remains but a shell of the main part. The el, large stable, dairy house, ice house, carriage sheds and silo are in ashes. Lorenzo D. Hathaway erected the first set of buildings in this spot twenty years ago, he was a carpenter and house joiner, therefore made a firm foundation upon which extensive additions have been made since. Chester W. Horne, who owned the place for many years built extensively and Mr. Richardson's coming into possession has remodeled and enlarged the buildings until they stood as a model among the farm houses in town.

He has lost a fully equipped dairy business which included every modern machine for the handling of milk quickly and in a sanitary way. His barn contained considerable farming machinery, harnesses, wagons, sleds and everything useful on an up to date place.

Owing to bad weather, considerable hay remained out on farms which he needed to cut, but most of his own was lost.

The Norway Fire Department were crippled by low pressure owing to repairs being made on the main. Chief Charles W. Bowker of South Paris turned the South Paris water into the Norway system and the fighters then had a large supply. Three streams were used, one was played on the DeCoster house from Greenleaf Avenue and two were taken from the hydrant near the fire. This hydrant is supplied by a four inch main which was taxed to its capacity during the rush.

Defective or crossed electric wires are supposed to have been responsible for the fire as the blaze started near the meter and far from any chimney.

Mrs. James Cleveland and sisters have very lately received a letter from their brother George Stanley who is somewhere in France, reports himself as being in fine health and spirits.

Names are Often Deceptive

A well dressed stranger landed at Norway station from Boston Thursday afternoon and inquired in broken English of Agent Emile Beaulieu if any Norwegians lived in town, as he was looking up his countrymen. The agent could give no positive information and the stranger searched the Main streets without meeting with success.

He returned and bought a ticket for Portland apparently disappointed with his unsuccessful trip. Agent Beaulieu was interested in the case and learned that the young man was seen Norway on the railroad map and surmised his inhabitants lived up to the name. He had an impression the town was running over with that nationality. This was his first trip in this part of the United States. Beaulieu is to try out New Sweden hoping to meet with better success.

It proved to be an ideal day, and a fine meeting and social afternoon with picnic dinner and supper were passed with Mr. and Mrs. Sheen.

It was a complete surprise to the hostess, but she was equal to the occasion and entertained in her usual pleasant manner. The party returned home in the early evening, voting it one more Happy Social Evening in the history of the Club, but with many regrets that more of the members were unable to attend.

Apparently the machine was in running condition and those who looked it over considered this a trade of a life time. Several shoemakers went so far as to search around for the owner of this remarkable bargain, intending to purchase. Norway has a mystery, who did the terrible deed?

A UNIQUE RECORD OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Home testimony for Doan's Kidney Pills, published in every locality, is of itself convincing evidence of merit. Confirmed testimony forms still stronger evidence. Years ago, a citizen of Norway gratefully acknowledged the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed—the proof more convincing. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills—the record is unique.

S. C. Foster, barber, Main street, Norway says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and I am only too glad to say to others I think they are the best of kidney medicines. Several years ago I had kidney trouble. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store and I was soon feeling all right again. I remained so for a long time, but later caught cold and my kidneys gave me trouble. I again took Doan's and they gave me relief." (Statement given July 24, 1903).

On June 6, 1916, Mr. Foster added: "I still think as well of Doan's Kidney Pills today as when I first endorsed them. I use them occasionally, as I feel in need of them and I am always promptly benefited."

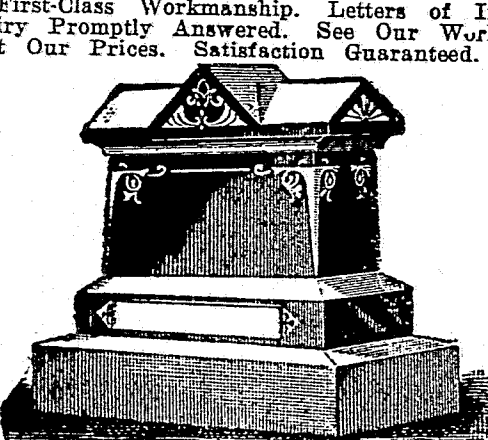

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. 33-34

OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Food Administrator Writes President America Conserved 141,000,000 Bushels Wheat.

CREDIT DUE TO WOMEN.

Meat and Fat Shipments Increased by 844,600,000 Pounds.

Conservation measures applied by the American people enabled the United States to ship to the Allied peoples and to our own forces overseas 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and 844,600,000 pounds of meat during the past year, valued in all at $1,400,000,000. This was accomplished in the face of a serious food shortage in this country, bespeaking the wholeheartedness and patriotism with which the American people have met the food crisis abroad.

Food Administrator Hoover, in a letter to President Wilson, explains how the situation was met. The voluntary conservation program fostered by the Food Administration enabled the piling up of the millions of bushels of wheat during 1917-18 and the shipment of meat during 1917-18.

The total value of all food shipments to Allied destinations amounted to $1,400,000,000, all this food being bought through or in collaboration with the Food Administration. These figures are all based on official reports and represent food exports for the harvest year that closed June 30, 1918.

The shipments of meats and fats (including meat products, dairy products, vegetable oils, etc.) to Allied destinations were as follows:
Fiscal year 1916-17....2,169,500,000 lbs.
Fiscal year 1917-18....3,011,100,000 lbs.

Increase 844,600,000 lbs.

Our slaughterable animals at the beginning of the last fiscal year were not appreciably larger than the year before and particularly in hogs; they were probably less. The increase in shipments is due to conservation and the extra weight of animals added by our farmers.

The full effect of these efforts began to bear their best results in the last half of the fiscal year, when the exports to the Allies were 2,133,100,000 pounds, as against 1,268,500,000 pounds in the same period of the year before. This compares with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three-year pre-war period.

In cereals and cereal products reduced to terms of cereal bushels our shipments to Allied destinations have been:
Fiscal year 1916-17....259,900,000 bushels
Fiscal year 1917-18....340,800,000 bushels

Increase 80,900,000 bushels

Of these cereals our shipments of the prime breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1917-18 to Allied destinations were: Wheat 131,000,000 bushels and of rye 13,900,000 bushels, a total of 144,900,000 bushels.

The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1916-17 were: Wheat 135,100,000 bushels and rye 2,800,000 bushels, a total of 137,900,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for Allied destinations or en route thereto. The total shipments to Allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be therefore, about 141,000,000 bushels, or a total of 154,900,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals depending upon us, and we have received some imports from other quarters.

"This accomplishment of our people in this matter stands out even more clearly if we bear in mind that we had available in the fiscal year 1916-17 from net carry-over and as surplus over our normal consumption about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat which we were able to export that year without trenching on our home loaf." Mr. Hoover said. "This last year, however, owing to the large failure of the 1917 wheat crop, we had available from net carry-over and production and imports only just about our normal consumption. Therefore our wheat shipments to Allied destinations represent approximately savings from our own wheat bread."

"These figures, however, do not fully convey the volume of the effort and sacrifice made during the past year by the whole American people. Despite the magnificent effort of our agricultural population in planting a much increased acreage in 1917, not only was there a very large failure in wheat, but also the corn failed to mature properly, and our corn is our dominant crop. "I am sure," Mr. Hoover wrote in concluding his report, "that all the millions of our people, agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in a year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest fully maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship."

"It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of our people—the homes, public eating places, food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in assessing credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of the American women."

WEST PARIS

West Paris 4: Berlin Shamrocks 0
Saturday, August 10th, the West Paris Town Team travelled to Berlin, N. H., and in a fast game defeated the Shamrocks of that city by the score of 4-0. This was the second shut-out within a week for West Paris as they swamped the Hebron Town Team last week 17-0.
For seven innings Saturday's game was a pitcher's battle in every sense of the word, but in the eighth something happened. Emery, first man up, fanned but Freo let the ball go past him and the batter reached first safely. H. Rowe placed a bunt down the third base line, Landrigan threw wild to first and Emery went to third while Rowe kept on to second. Next Hill drove one at Heney too hot to handle and the first run came across. A minute later Rowe scored on H. Perham's long fly to center. McAllister was an easy out, but R. Perham was hit by one of Landrigan's wild ones. Then Bacon planted a pretty single in right field and West Paris had squared accounts with the Shamrocks. The score:

FIFTY-FIFTY RULE STILL EFFECTIVE

Public Eating Places and Housewives Must Continue to Use Wheat Flour Substitutes.

Orono, Me., Aug. 15.—Releases of hotels, restaurants and homes from the pledge to do without wheat until the 1918 harvest, announced recently by the United States Food Administration, should not be misconstrued to mean that they are privileged to use wheat flour entirely without substitutes.

It is believed that many people in this state had either misinterpreted the "release" or deliberately sought to use it as an excuse to avoid the regulations.

Hotels and restaurants are required under the present regulations to use thirty-three and one-third per cent of wheat flour substitutes in all sweet goods baked and served and 25 per cent of wheat flour substitutes in all bread and rolls.

Householders are still held to the 50-50 rule in the purchase and use of flour and are asked to ration themselves and their establishments to a maximum consumption of 1½ pounds of wheat per person per week.

Notwithstanding connecting reports, there has been no concession or departure from the wheat flour limitations, and the 50-50 rule is still effective.

SEEK PROMPT RETURN OF CANS

Dairymen who ship milk to the cities will be pleased to know that work is being done on the problem of getting more prompt returns of milk and cream cans. At the suggestion of the Food Administration the express companies are sending out circulars to all their agents and messages calling their attention to the need for quick service in sending back these containers to the shipper. They are being impressed with the importance of this service in keeping up a steady supply of a most necessary food and in giving the shipper an opportunity to market his highly perishable product quickly.

The Food Administration believes that the appeal to the employees will have the desired effect. The need in this important industry is for prompt shipments both ways.

HOLDING THE LINE

We have the task of maintaining the men in that living line made up of soldiers and the people back of that line. We must not run any risk. There must be no narrow margins. We must see that there is plenty of food over there, so that no matter what happens to the shipping in any one month, they are safe. Then we have the chance to win the war and make good.

The food program is a fighting program. We here in this country have the education, we have the brains, we have the loyalty. We must live up to our privilege of backing up our splendid men who represent us in the Army and Navy. Let each of us live so each day that when our boys come back from France we can look them in the eye and say: "I did my share and all that I could do at home."

THE NEW SUGAR RULES

Patriotic citizens of Maine will adjust themselves to the two pound per month consumption of sugar. This new regulation issued by the Food Administration will continue at least until the first of October, and possibly later. The first of the new crop from which relief may come, will reach the United States market in October, in the form of beet sugar. Louisiana cane sugar will be available about the middle of November, and Cuban cane a month later. However, the quantity of these supplies will hardly be sufficient to afford appreciable relief until in January.

The restricted individual ration implies no modification or departure from the Food Administration's policy of encouraging canning, without the use of sugar whenever possible.—"but canning by all means!"—The Food Administration explains that the largely increased foreign demands for sugar at this time, are taking much of the amount that has been anticipated for canning purposes.

Accordingly, the administration is calling upon housewives to preserve their fruit without sugar, and adding a sweetener later on when it is expected the supply will be more plentiful.

HOARDING CONDEMNED

Federal Food Administrator Leon S. Merrill, has said that hoarding is a thing that cannot be too severely condemned, especially at a time when assurance is given that it is not necessary. It is a patriotic duty on the part of every citizen who knows when hoarding is being practiced to report it immediately to the nearest local food administrator. Since sugar can be so easily hidden away, good citizens are all the more duty-bound to stamp out this pernicious practice. Local administrators should secure from merchants their heartiest co-operation in attaining an equitable distribution of sugar, both for the protection of the merchant and the general public.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

Eva May Silver

The community was shocked to learn that Eva May Silver, aged 19, had passed away suddenly late Saturday, Aug. 10, at the Central Maine General Hospital where she had undergone a serious surgical operation earlier in the day.

The operation for appendicitis was successful, and she so far recovered as to converse with her father who was by her side almost continually. The end came unexpectedly while he was absent a short time in the city.

Eva M. Silver was the daughter of Albert T. and Arvilla M. (Benson) Silver, born in Norway, Sept. 1899. The family moved to a farm at South Woodstock when she was an infant, and has spent her life there excepting a short time at Bryant Pond, where she had employment.

Miss Silver was beloved by all who had the pleasure of making her acquaintance. From a child she interested herself in the joys and sorrows of the neighborhood, ever ready to assist at times when her presence would bring cheer. She had been rightly called the Sunshine Girl for the cheerful manner, and the happy but thoughtful way she possessed in meeting the various needs of the community. Miss Silver attended the Seventh Adventist services, was a member of the Sabbath School and an earnest worker in the Young People's Society.

Her going out follows the news that her brother, Fred William S. Silver, Co. D, 103 Infantry had been seriously wounded in France during the recent big drive. The severe blow is being borne uncomplainingly by the family, who have the utmost faith in the ever ruling mind who would not see His children suffer in vain.

Besides her parents she leaves three brothers Harry, Charles and William, also three sisters, Mrs. Flora Swinton, Edith Silver and Jennie Silver.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist Church in South Woodstock, Rev. Alton Verrill of Pigeon Hill, Oxford, spoke comforting words to the bereaved family and friends. A large number of beautiful flowers expressed in a silent way the genuine sympathy of the community for the stricken family and the love they bore for the departed one.

The bearers were Erland Thurlow, Kenneth Benson, Benjamin Wilson and Alva Hendrickson. Burial in the South Woodstock cemetery.

Captain Buck was somewhat handicapped in regard to time for preparation, but he presented an interesting and enjoyable program nevertheless.

Following is the speech delivered by Mrs. A. E. K. Grover at the presentation of the flag to Norway Grange: "We will remember the birthday of Old Glory. On June 14, 1776, the Stars and Stripes were first formally accepted by the Continental Congress to be the flag of America as an individual nation. The momentous day when our Country's standard was adopted, and now annually observed as Flag Day, was memorably celebrated June 14, 1877, the one hundredth anniversary of its congressional acceptance, in Boston at the Old South Meeting house, and at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, as well as at other places throughout the country."

"George Washington gave a grand sentiment as, gazing on the flag he said, 'We take the Star from Heaven, the Red from our Mother country, (England) separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing Liberty.'"

"Take the letters F L A G; F is for Faith, Freedom, Fraternity, L is for Love, Liberty; A is for Aliens, Americans, Allegiance; G is for Government, Guardians. The four letters spell Flag; the flag of our nation and now will you all earnestly join me in the Salute; pledge a word used a great deal. The salute to the flag was written by James Upham of Malden, Mass., over 25 years ago; 'I pledge allegiance to my Flag, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.'"

"Fields of white and scarlet, Blue field and silver stars.
Willing feet follow you, Warm hearts cheerish you.
Ours by inheritance; Ours by Allegiance; Long may you wave in the free wind of Heaven.
Emblem of Liberty, Hope of the world."

At this time we realize more than ever what our Nation's Flag means to us as a fraternal body, and community and nation, and it is with a feeling of deepest reverence that this Flag is given into the care of Norway Grange as one of the most precious and sacred emblems, for without it there would not be Liberty."

SHEEP WITH GRUB IN THE HEAD

One of the evils to be found in sheep husbandry is grub in the head. In the hot summer months while sheep are resting beside bushes and shady trees chewing their cud or sleeping, a big fly, known as the grub fly, lights on its nose, generally a little fluid, not at all harmful, is running from the nostrils. This fly settles down on the nostrils in order time it to feed on this fluid. In the which the sheep is breathing draws into its nose. The eggs hatch, and the small worms crawl up into the cavities in the nasal passage. The worms develop into large sized grubs which look like those found under rotten stumps or ploved ground. The only difference is that the grub found in the head of sheep when full grown, are not quite half the size of those found in stumps and in the ground. When the big fly begins to work, the sheep will be seen to travel with their noses close to the ground, then something should be done as a preventative.

Prevention Better than Cure: Pine Tar smeared on the nose of the sheep is one of the best preventatives. In case of a small flock, this can easily be done by catching each one separately and smearing the nose just above the nostrils. In case of a large flock, when salt is fed in troughs, the bottom and sides can be smeared with a heavy coat of tar and the salt put on top of it. In licking up the salt, the sheep cannot help getting some of the tar on their noses. If they eat a little of the tar it will do no harm. Other devices are to take a plank and bore holes through with a two and a half or three inch auger, then nail a board on to form the bottom of the trough. Smear the edges and sides of these holes with a heavy coat of tar, then partly fill with salt. Still another way is to take old railroad ties and bore holes of the same size in them and use salt and tar the same way. The holes should be 18 or 20 inches apart. If the sheep's noses are kept well tarred during hot weather, there will be very little trouble from grub in the head.

Is Your Home Protected?

This matter of lightning rods should be a personal one with you.

Is your home protected? If not, can you afford to take the chances of its destruction?

You may have been spared up to this time, but give it a moment's thought and see whether it has not been through your good fortune rather than through your good management.

You have no assurance that lightning will continue to spare you.

It has visited your neighbors. Your turn may come next. If it should visit your home, it means certain destruction of property. It may mean sudden death to you or to some member of your family.

You cannot shift the responsibility. It is a matter for you to decide. Face the issue squarely and ask yourself the question whether you are playing the part of the prudent man in neglecting to guard your home and dear ones from the lightning stroke which may come at any time.

You have the highest assurances that can be given the Dodd System of lightning rods does give protection.

It is a reasonable system. The demonstrations put its effectiveness beyond question.

The position that the insurance companies have taken in the matter should have great weight with you.

Their interests are to preserve property. They have no personal interests in Dodd & Struthers.

Your interests are the same. You want to preserve your property—and your life and the lives of your family.

The insurance companies are encouraging you to protect your property.

But they cannot force you to act. It is a question for you and a question of NOW.

After awhile may be too late. Will you answer the question to your own best interest?

Then if in doubt, telephone to A. W. Walker & Son for a demonstration, and estimate on your buildings.

Speaking About

Young Men's Clothes

Let it be understood that we do not confine our remarks exclusively to the men from twenty-one to thirty-one years of age. We are not unmindful of that old saying, "A man is just as young as he feels," and our observations while catering to the clothing needs of men have shown that

Hundreds of men to-day are boys at forty, young men at sixty, and in cities—in the heart of things—men of seventy even dress the young men's part.

So you Young Men of forty, fifty, sixty and seventy, it makes no difference what your particular tastes are or your build—we have clothes for the normal size, the big, the little, tall, short, stout or extra stout—and every suit or top coat you will find is distinctive in style and meets every requirement of fashion, as well, and as surely as they meet every

CRUSADE ENROLLS A MILLION CHILDREN

That nearly 1,000,000 boys and girls throughout the nation have now been enrolled as Modern Health Crusaders, and that recruiting to increase this membership to still greater numbers will soon begin, was announced by the National Tuberculosis Association, under whose direction this movement is conducted. The Crusade, the Association states, "centers about a simple but fundamental program of health 'chores,' on the part of children, and enlists the rising generation of the nation's citizens in a better understanding of individual and a public health essentials."

"The American Red Cross," the Association announces, "has now officially endorsed the Modern Health Crusade. H. D. Gibson, the general manager of the Red Cross, has written to the managers of its fourteen divisions, including the foreign division, bespeaking their cooperation in this movement. In a letter to the Association Mr. Gibson says that he 'takes pleasure in endorsing the program of the Health Crusaders as giving an interesting and useful field for patriotic service of the school children and the promotion of national welfare.' Dr. H. N. MacCracken, National Director of the Junior Red Cross, commends the movement, in a statement herewith made public, 'to every school child in the nation. During the summer, Dr. MacCracken says, the divisions of the Red Cross will be supplied with Modern Health Crusade material for distribution to all school teachers, and the individual score cards for the daily health chores, which each child must perform to become a member, will be made available for the twenty millions of school children in America.'

"New insignia for the coming year," the Association's announcement concludes, "have now been prepared for the Crusader hosts. These consist of a button for the Square, a silver pin for the Knight and a gold pin for the Knight Banneret. The button shows Liberty at war against disease, and the metal pins show a Crusader Bowman about to let his arrow fly from behind his Modern Health Crusader shield."

July 12, Somewhere in France.

Will try and write you just a few lines so as to let you know that I am still alive. I should have written before, but have been in the hospital. Had to have an operation for appendicitis, the 25th of June, but am getting along fine now.

How is everybody at home, I hope fine. What is the excitement around there? We get fine care here. My, but it does seem good to have a nice bed after you have been sleeping in an old dugout or the bottom of a muddy trench or any place, then to get into a nice bed it seems almost like home. How are Aunt Lydia and Edith, are they down this summer? I have never heard a word from them. Well, as I am getting tired, I will close for this time. With love, from Lionel.
